THE EXPLOITS OF SHERLOCK HOLMES
Volume II

Three adventures alluded to by Dr. John H. Watson, from his records of 1887.

The Sophy Anderson -

Sherlock Holmes investigates the mysterious circumstances behind the missing British bark, 'The Sophy Anderson'. But what begins an attempt to determine which report is true and which report is false, leads Holmes to suspect there's a greater purpose behind the disappearance of the ship.

The Adventure of the Tired Captain -

Sherlock Holmes answers the pleas of Capt. Drew Somrack who is accused by the Royal Navy of operating his steamship with gross negligence, grounding his craft on the beach at Margate. His memory of the Channel crossing is vague and what he does remember is nightmarish and cruel. What secrets will Holmes uncover as he unravels the mystery behind what really happened during the crossing, and are the forces at work behind all of it one man's imagination or another man's design of terror?

The Camberwell Poisoning Case -

Sherlock Holmes answers the midnight summons of Dr. Horrace Maton, whose friend, Sir Richmond Carter, sixth baron of Masterton, has been poisoned, and during a day where Sir Richmond was seen drinking at several events during the Queen's Jubilee. But he may have been poisoned afterward at a strange ritual practiced on every solstice by the baron. Holmes is hired by a lady friend, Sir Richmond's angel, who during the ritual, would 'fly out', and bring him water from the river's edge, to prove she is innocent in the death of Sir Richmond.
